

Volunteer Certificate

This document certifies that Ina Campan participated as a member of the jury in the international program "Technovation Girls," organized in Romania by the ADFABER Association from October 2022 to May 2023.

We particularly thank Ina for her patience, correctness, and professionalism exhibited as a jury member, analyzing, scoring, and providing valuable feedback for projects created by students from middle school and high school.

The projects judged in the competition were developed by students using both programming languages and artificial intelligence, to create IT solutions addressing real problems faced by their communities.

This certificate is issued as needed for the completion of her personal file/portfolio. For additional details, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Volunteer Certificate

This document certifies that Ina Campan has participated as a member of the jury in the national competition "Learn to Program with Alice," organized by ADFABER from September 12 to December 6, 2023.

We especially thank her for the patience, correctness, and professionalism she has shown as a member of the competition jury, analyzing and scoring projects made by students from middle school and high school, using the JAVA programming language. As a member of the jury of the competition "Learn to Program with Alice," her essential role was the evaluation and selection of participating projects.

Her responsibilities included:

- In-depth analysis of each project, assessing compliance with the competition requirements and established quality criteria.
- Providing constructive and targeted feedback, thereby contributing to the development of programming skills of the young participants.

This certificate is issued as needed for the completion of her personal file/portfolio. For additional details, please do not hesitate to contact us.
